From strengthening the economy to enriching the community through cultural diversity, international students add immeasurable value to the city. The City of Stuttgart – together with its universities, regional business and development partners, and the local Employment Agency – wants to ease your transition from international student to young professional in Stuttgart.

At our event “Your Future in Stuttgart - Deine Zukunft in Stuttgart”, you have access to a variety of resources and experts to help you plan your future.

From advice on how to prepare your job application, which agencies will help you to find a job, important addresses and potential employers in Stuttgart and its region, the information you need to succeed is right at your fingertips. Furthermore, you can hear from former international students about how they jumpstarted their own professional careers in Stuttgart.
